

The Emergent Learning Community Project

Learning and Adapting for Social Change: Bringing the Principles and Tools of Emergent Learning into Your Work

What if you could make a bigger impact in your work? What if you had the tools to help your team, organization, and community get better at what they do, faster?

The Emergent Learning Community Project invites you to join a transformative, six-month journey designed to help you do just that. This isn't a passive webinar series—it's a hands-on, deeply collaborative program where you'll learn to apply the principles and tools of Emergent Learning (EL) directly to the social change work you're already doing. Emergent Learning is a powerful approach that helps people work together more effectively to achieve and accelerate their results over time.

Keeping Your Work at the Center

This program is built around your work. You'll be using your current projects as a laboratory for change. We believe that true learning happens when people focus on the “Why” at the center of their work – what you are really trying to accomplish – and discover more equitable and effective ways to do it.

You will be identifying existing opportunities to apply the principles and tools. Participants who get the most out of the program play with the principles and tools during the program with work that is happening now. Throughout the program, you'll:

- Apply EL principles and tools to your everyday work.
- Gain skills to help your team use learning to improve performance and get better at what you do.
- Discover practical approaches to capture insights as they emerge.
- Connect with a diverse group of mission-oriented individuals, sharing challenges and celebrating successes.

You'll learn to ask powerful questions in a meeting or invite colleagues to “rub stories together” – small changes that can lead to big breakthroughs. You'll become familiar with principles of Emergent Learning and how to apply them with easy-to-use tools that, together, can transform your learning practice.

Who Should Join

This program is meant for individuals and teams who are addressing social change. Past participants with roles such as learning and evaluation, program, strategy, operations consulting, and communications. We've had people apply EL to everything from strategy refreshes and evaluation to family vacation planning.

If you want to learn more about the program, we invite you to attend a one-hour Program Preface session with the co-hosts. We'll introduce you to the principle 'Keeping Work at the Center', illustrate some of the structure that you will experience throughout the program, and answer your questions about the program. Although these sessions are not mandatory prior to enrollment, they are highly encouraged. Program Preface sessions are listed below and you can register by clicking on one of the dates and times, that will create an email invite that you can add to your personal calendar.

Program Structure and Offering

We've designed this program to be highly interactive and supportive. Here's a look at what you'll experience:

- A small, intimate cohort: You'll be assigned to one of four cohorts of 20-25 participants. Each Cohort will have four 2-hour sessions where we'll dive into the EL principles and tools. These sessions are highly participatory, not just lectures.
- Small group coaching: Two weeks after the large session, you'll meet with a coach and four other participants to share your experiences and explore how you're applying the principles and tools.
- An in-person convening: A three-day in-person session in Chicago. This is an opportunity for deep connection and learning. Meeting costs and meals are included in your program fee. Accommodation and travel will be at the participant's expense. A virtual alternative will also be available for those who cannot attend the Chicago program.
- Access to a wealth of resources: You'll get two comprehensive Guides to the Principles and Practices of Emergent Learning, a detailed syllabus, and access to the Emergent Learning Community Resource Center – an online hub of case studies, articles, and videos.

Join a vibrant community: Once you complete the program, you'll become a lifelong member of the broader Emergent Learning Community of nearly 600 practitioners. You'll be invited to regular and ad hoc community conversations and have an ongoing network of support.

Who Should Join

This program is for anyone committed to social change, regardless of your role. We've welcomed people from a wide range of roles – from strategy and program management, from evaluation, communications and operations, both internal staff and consultants – and they've applied EL to everything from large-scale initiatives, to new grant program plans, to issues of parenting!

We especially welcome teams from the same organization or from your partners within your own ecosystem. The learning is even more powerful when you go through the program together.

Registration Details

- Membership in the Emergent Learning Community: The fee includes all aspects of the program and successful completion confers membership in the ELC – a benefit that stays with YOU as an individual.
Time Commitment: Expect to dedicate 2-4 hours each week to active participation and self-study.
- Reduced Fee/Scholarships: While we are a small nonprofit of individual consultants, the ECLP is dedicated to ensuring that people have equitable access to the program. Because of this, we offer a limited number of scholarships (of up to $2,000) to reduce the financial burden of participation. Please register before you apply for a fellowship. Select to create an invoice, if you are awarded a scholarship, we will amend the invoice. If you are not awarded the scholarship, you are under no obligation to attend and pay for the program. Scholarships will be awarded on a rolling basis beginning September 30, so we encourage you to apply early after completing the registration process. You are welcome to reach out to Jim or Yen with any questions.
- Program Fee:
 - $5,900 for staff in organizations
 - $3,700 for independent consultants
- This is a time-sensitive request: Given the demand for our prior programs and limitations on size, we expect our 2027 program to fill quickly. To participate, please register as soon as possible and no later than Monday, November 23.

Ready to enroll? Click ONE of the links below to register on the Emergent Learning Community's Program site:

- You work in an organization - register here
- You are an independent consultant - you work for yourself, register here

Payment of the invoice secures your spot in the program.

Co-Hosts: The 2027 program will be co-hosted by Yen Chau and Jim Stiles. Additional coaches for this program will include coaches drawn from the Emergent Learning Community and Fellows of the Emergent Learning Community Project. A final roster of coaches will be available in December.

For more on Emergent Learning, see Emergent Learning: A Framework for Whole System Strategy, Learning and Adaptation, by Marilyn J. Darling, Jillaine S. Smith, Heidi Sparkes Guber, & James E.M. Stiles, Foundation Review, March 2016.

Once you've paid for the program, Deanna Sullivan (deanna@emergentlearning.org) will send you the Guide to the Principles of Emergent Learning and the Guide to the Practice of Emergent Learning.
